Defendants Sherry-Netherland, Inc. (the “Corporation”, or the “Coop”), Michael J. Ullman and Robert Wiener (collectively, the “Coop Defendants”) by their attorneys, Robert I. Cantor, PLLC, answer the Verified Complaint dated August 5, 2016 (the “Complaint”) as follows:

1. The Coop Defendants deny the allegations set forth in paragraph 1 of the Complaint and aver that, with one exception, the Complaint pleads a standard landlord tenant fact pattern properly heard in New York State courts, concerning allegations that the Coop’s staff did not accurately discern the causes of a leak into the apartments of plaintiffs and others and that its agents did not initially remediate the conditions, thus allegedly causing damage to plaintiff’s apartment. For purposes of this Answer and unless the context otherwise requires, the Coop Defendants’ use of the singular “Plaintiff” applies equally to Miles Kwok (also known as Miles Guo, Kwok Ho Wan, Guo Wengui, Guo Haoyun and possibly other names) (“Mr. Kwok”)

and Genever Holdings, LLC (“Genever”).¹

2. The Coop Defendants deny the allegations set forth in paragraph 2 of the Complaint except they admit that the Corporation holds itself out to be the operator of a first class cooperative residential hotel (the “Sherry-Netherland,” the “Hotel” or the “Building”). The Coop Defendants further aver that the Proprietary Lease, to which the Corporation and Co-Plaintiff Genever Holdings LLC (“Genever”) are parties and of which Co-Plaintiff Miles Kwok is a guarantor (and, as alleged by Plaintiffs (see Complaint at ¶ 22), Mr. Kwok is the sole member of Genever), permits representatives of the Corporation to enter the apartment under the circumstances relevant here without notice.

3. The Coop Defendants deny the allegations set forth in paragraph 3 of the Complaint except that they admit that the entry into Plaintiff’s apartment was in an attempt to prevent and ascertain the cause of a leak resulting from a rainstorm.

4. The Coop Defendants deny knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations set forth in paragraph 4 of the Complaint concerning whether Mr. Kwok and his family conducted any investigation of the “matter” therein alleged or how any such investigation could have led to an inquiry or finding regarding escrowed maintenance fees. The Coop Defendants deny that the Corporation has any “customary” deposit of maintenance and further deny that they took any action based upon the fact that Mr. Kwok is a Chinese citizen. The Coop Defendants further aver that:

- a. The Coop required plaintiff to deposit five years’ worth of maintenance fees at the time of closing as security against Plaintiff’s possible failure to fulfill its obligations under the Proprietary Lease.

¹ The one exception to the landlord-tenant allegations consists of three identical racial discrimination claims, which, as described in detail, infra, falsely allege that the Coop required plaintiff to post a large security deposit as a condition of approving his purchase application solely because plaintiff is a Chinese citizen.

- b. The size of the required deposit is unrelated to the fact that Plaintiff is the only Chinese citizen who is a shareholder, or the principal of a shareholder, and is actually based on various unrelated facts and circumstances. The mere fact that the required deposit is higher than any deposit required of other shareholders of the Corporation and that Mr. Kwok is a Chinese citizen does not establish that the Coop's requirement was discriminatory in violation of City, State and Federal anti-discrimination laws.
- c. Not only are these allegations of discrimination legally meritless, they are also pleaded upon a blatantly untrue factual premise, that "[w]ithout explanation, Plaintiffs were required to pay five years' worth [of payments]." See Compl. ¶ 40 (emphasis added).
- d. To the contrary, the amount of the deposit was fully negotiated between the Coop's board president, Michael J. Horvitz, and Plaintiff's attorney, Jerry Shulman, of the Washington D.C. firm, Williams & Connelly. Horvitz explained in a March 2nd email to Shulman that, because Plaintiff's financial assets were all located in China and the documentation provided was unverified, he had "concern about the financial information that has been presented". Horvitz's email to Shulman continued:

In this case, you have submitted financial information that you identified as having been "audited," but there is no accountant's certification, no statement of the accounting principles used in the preparation of the financials, and no detailed description of the entity to which the financials apply. The "balance sheet" shows assets only, but not liabilities, and there is no way for us to verify that there are no offsetting liabilities or that [Plaintiff] has immediate access to these assets should he need them. It is my hope that you will find some way to give us comfort on these points. It is likely that we will require several years of maintenance payment to be deposited in a U.S. account to stand as security for payment and to be replenished promptly in the event that it is drawn down to any extent. This would not be a substitute for independent verification of [plaintiff's] resources, however.

- e. On the next day, Shulman's email to Horvitz stated that, "please be assured that [Plaintiff] understands that he will be required both to sign a personal guaranty as to the periodic maintenance fees related to the apartment and the maid's room he seeks to acquire and to escrow sufficient funds in the regard to satisfy your concerns."
- f. Horvitz then informed Shulman that the board would require a security deposit in the amount of five years' of maintenance. Shulman responded that "I am pleased to inform you that [Plaintiff] is willing to fund at closing an escrow account in an amount equal to five times the annual maintenance charges on his apartment in order to allay all remaining concerns about his financial capacity to cover such costs on a monthly basis."
- g. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the board's concerns regarding plaintiff's finances were heightened because Plaintiff's representatives informed the board that it had only three days, until March 6th, to review and approve Plaintiff's application, or else Plaintiff would terminate his purchase contract.

To accommodate plaintiff the Coop's board met on the evening of March 3rd at which Horvitz explained the proposed transaction, including the fact that plaintiff had agreed to deposit with the Coop an amount equal to five years of maintenance as security for timely payment of his maintenance and all other financial obligations to the Coop. After extensive discussion, the board determined that the financial information provided was not sufficient for the board to consider the application but that it was favorably disposed to the transaction upon its receipt and review of additional financial information.

- h. On March 4th, Shulman provided additional documentation, and expressed that "[w]e hope that these documents together with [Plaintiff's] willingness to fund a five year escrow fund will allay any remaining concerns for the Board." The board subsequently passed a resolution approving Plaintiff's application provided that a security deposit equal to five years' current maintenance be posted.
- i. Pursuant to the terms of a Security Deposit Agreement dated March 6, 2016, signed by Plaintiff's "Authorized Person", plaintiff deposited a check in the required amount "[i]n order to induce the [Coop] to approve the transfer" of the shares allocated to the apartments which he was purchasing.

- a. In an emergency situation during a rainstorm in the middle of the night, when water is pouring into an apartment located immediately below a terrace, it is reasonable to examine the terrace to determine whether the terrace is the cause of, or a contributing factor with respect to, such leak.

- b. If, in the course of such examination, it is discovered that a nonconforming situation prevents the terrace from draining properly and causes debris to accumulate around the terrace drain, the Corporation is permitted by the Proprietary Lease to require the nonconforming condition to be remedied at the expense of the shareholder regardless of whether the nonconforming condition is the proximate cause of the leak.
